Grassy Waters Festival is next Saturday An invitation from the co-chairs

The Grassy Waters Festival and Car Show will be held next Saturday, November 23. This year's theme is "Experience the Spirit of Paohokee."

Our committee is working hard and has a lot of "Spirit" while planning a fun-filled day for your enjoyment, so... don't forget to put this date on your calendars. Come on out to Lake Okeechobee. The fun begins with our famous "Bed Race." Vendor booths open at 10 a.m.

Ladies, and oh yes, gentlemen as well, don't forget to enter our Seventh Annual Bake-off Registration forms, rules and details are available at the Chamber office. For information, call 924-5579. This bake-off is not limited to just Paohokee, so Belle Glade, Clewiston, South Bay and Canal Point (all lake communities), come on out and join the fun. Find those favorite recipes!

Our festival will include music throughout the day for all types and all age groups, food courts, and also "Experience the Taste of Paohokee" will be offered. There will be children's games, three legged races, sack races, egg and spoon games, a Kids Korner, zoo exhibit, boat races, an art show by local artists, crafts, fly over by ultralight planes and, sail boat races. There will be rides, a hay ride, children's cloggers from LaBelle and Clewiston, and the Big Lake Line Dancers.

So...don't miss all the festival committee has planned. Come "Experience the Spirit of Paohokee."

Our community welcomes you. There is fun and something for everyone. See you there.

P.S. A special thanks to the people in the Glades, as well as cities throughout Florida who defeated Amendment 4. Just see what can be done when our people, communities, and farmers come together, hand in hand. God truly answered our prayers.

Parents await verdict from Medical Examiners Office

On October 27, 1996, at approximately 7:20 a.m., the Sheriff's Office was summoned to 2063 Bacon Point Road in Paohokee, concerning an infant death. The victim, the daughter of Daniel DeJesus and Sylvia Diaz, had been suffering from flu-like symptoms for the last three or four days and the mother was treating the infant with over-the-counter medications.

The child, Jennifer DeJesus, was placed in her crib on the prior evening about 8:00 p.m. She was found the next morning unresponsive in her crib. She has apparently died during the night.

There were no signs of trauma and the body of the little girl was turned over to the Medical Examiner's Office. No charges have been pressed against the parents. Lab results on toxicology are still pending.

During the meeting, affordable housing, health, literacy, public transportation, safe communities, child care and economic self-sufficiency were among the topics discussed.

"The Profile provides a foundation for measuring our community's progress and helps everyone to understand how well or how poorly we're doing in eight areas," says Gale Howden, project chairman.

"For example, what percentage of children in Palm Beach County live below the poverty level? What is the true percentage of housing in the county that is substandard?"

Officials said the Profile is of particular value because it begins to resolve the problem that researchers currently encounter of finding conflicting, outdated or inaccurate data.

"We are able to identify a great deal of relevant data, as well as other data that was not representative," said Susan Buzza, Health and Human Services executive director.

The committee compiled profiles in eight areas: income and economics; physical health; behavioral health; housing; transportation; knowledge and skills; public safety; and social and recreation.

Committee members, who numbered approximately 250, were charged with first identifying and collecting reliable data, then assessing their relevance.

Planning group studying critical issues in the county

A critical planning tool for county decision-makers on issues related to health and human services was unveiled at a Community Profile Breakfast Nov. 8. The Health and Human Services Planning Association presented a Community Profile of current conditions in Palm Beach County.

Participating in the Community Profile from the Glades were representatives from the health care industry, city government and the community.

Those included Community activist Sandra Chamberlain; Iris Tanner, Aide to State Rep. Ken Jenne; Dennis Abbot with the Palm Beach County Health Care Center, Glades area; Mary Lou Powers with the Med Mobile; Patricia Hood, RN, at Glades General Hospital; Ken Schenck, City Manager for the City of Paohokee; Belle Glade Police Chief Michael Miller; Belle Glade Police Inspector Louis Lowery and Brian Cross with United States Sugar Corporation.

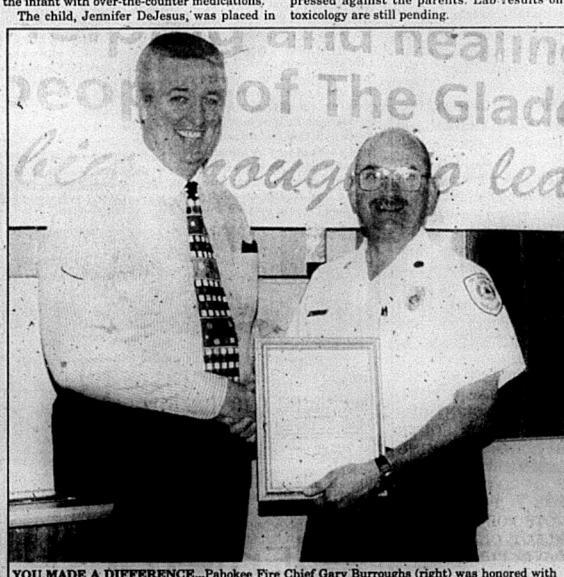

During the meeting, affordable housing, health, literacy, public transportation, safe communities, child care and economic self-sufficiency were among the topics discussed.

History of the Radar

by Mike Lyons

It was the early 1940's. The United States was at war. The government was looking for a special weapon. A weapon that would turn the tide in World War II.

A handful of scientists - all experts in their respective fields - went to work on a secret project. Eventually, more than 4,000 men and women would create the discovery that helped the Allies win World War II.

It was an invention, argues author Robert Buderi, that not only won the war but changed the world forever. No, it wasn't the atomic bomb. It was radar.

In his new book, "The Invention That Changed the World" (Simon and Schuster), Buderi tells the story of the pioneers of radar. Men and women who won a race against time to develop the technology to defeat the Axis forces and launch an electronic revolution.

While the atomic bomb may have ended World War II, Buderi argues that radar won it. Radar was decisive in defending Britain against the German air force, in securing shipping channels in the Atlantic from German U-boats and in winning the sea and air battles of the Pacific.

The technological revolution came during the post-war years. A revolution that led to the development of radio astronomy, the transistor and even the computer. And, ultimately, the creation of weather radars that track thunderstorms and detect tornadoes - America's weather warning system.

The development of radar began in 1940 on the campus of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Under the authority of the National Defense Research Committee, a distinguished group of physicists began work on the secret project at what became known as the Radiation Laboratory.

In many ways, the work of these scientists at MIT paralleled their counterparts in Los Alamos, where development of the atom bomb was underway. With Spartan working conditions, great camaraderie, a common sense of urgency, an almost total absence of red tape and bureaucratic structure, it provided an experience that profoundly touched the lives of all who worked there," Buderi writes. Buderi says it was a working environment that many of the scientists tried to recreate many years later in other projects.

The most compelling section of the book are the war years as Buderi describes how the technology moved out of the laboratory, how it was received in the military culture and what significance it had in various theaters of war.

Yet, the greatest influence of the radar project, Buderi argues, came after the war. Those 4,000 scientists took their experience, ideas and energy and launched a technological revolution. Buderi argues convincingly that many of the electronic marvels that we take for granted today are linked in one way or another to the scientists who invented radar.

Every time you turn on your car radio, pop a frozen entrée into the microwave oven or surf the Internet on your personal computer, Buderi says you're using technology that was created at the Radiation Laboratory.

Hard to believe the Doppler radar I refer to every night was designed to win a war. Radar won that battle, but even more important, it turned out to be the roots of an electronic revolution that continues to grow today.

The Dark Side of Sunset

by Paula Swaford, RN

With the time change, it is such a pleasant sight to see the beautiful Florida sunsets each evening as I drive home from work. Sunsets put a glowing touch to the day, whether it was a good one or a bad one; but sunsets for some people are not pleasant experiences at all. Sundowner's Syndrome is a term that medical personnel use to describe a condition that frequently occurs in elderly people with some form of confusion. People who are somewhat confused at times during the daytime can find themselves more confused, restless and insecure late in the day and especially after dark. They may become more demanding, restless, upset over small, insignificant things, disoriented and even see, hear or believe things that aren't real. Attention span and concentration become even more limited during the evening hours.

No one is sure exactly what causes sundowning, although it seems to result from brain diseases, whether acute and treatable or chronic and irreversible. It may also be caused from a lack of sensory stimulation after dark. Here are a few hints and strategies that caregivers and family members may use to help combat this unfortunate situation. Schedule an early afternoon rest period to avoid over-tiredness which could lead to increased confusion. Do not physically restrain the person. Keep them busy with small jobs, such as folding towels, which will keep their senses stimulated. Don't argue with them or condemn their ideas, reassurance is the best response. Don't ask them "What is wrong?", which will force them to make a decision. Make the decisions for them, which will help to alleviate additional stress. Comfort them with their favorite things, such as music, stuffed animals, real animals, TV, etc. Do whatever helps them to relax.

The families involved should try simple activities that are "failure-free" and short term with few verbal instructions which will help to reduce frustration. If visitors are present, they can help by taking the elderly person for a walk, if able, or listening to favorite songs or singing with them. Encourage them to talk about the things that they are still able to do, and stress to children in the family to have patience and not to argue with them. Avoid bathing in late afternoon or early evening, unless they tend to be calmed by a warm bath. Leave nightlights or the TV on to help them sleep. Try a soothing back rub or soft music. Routines may or may not be a good thing; the only way to know is trial and error.

The most important thing when dealing with a person who experiences Sundowner's Syndrome is to remain flexible. Don't be so regimented with your routines and ideas that you cause the condition to worsen. Speak with your physician to see if (s)he has any suggestions or medications that might help.

For those of us who have no problems associated with sundown each day, please continue to enjoy - Florida has some of the best in the country!

Until next time...stay informed and stay healthy.

A 74-Year Miracle: Hospitals Without Bills

Shriners Are Renowned for Treating Burns, Bones

News USA

(NU) - It seems almost impossible for Americans to imagine, but there are 22 hospitals across the North America that treat children and don't send out bills.

For nearly 75 years, the Shriners Hospitals system has treated more than 500,000 children — without charge — for orthopaedic problems, acute burns and spinal cord injuries.

After seven-plus decades of specialized care, the Shriners Hospitals system has become a major referral center for complex and highly specialized orthopaedic treatments for children. Often treated are scoliosis (disfiguring curvature of the spine), brittle bone disease, cerebral palsy, limb deformities and growth problems, spina bifida, rickets, and bone problems resulting from nerve and muscle disorders.

Recently, Blake Bosarge, 2, of Colorado Springs, Colo., was missing the primary bones in his feet, which were deformed and missing several tendons. And his lower leg bones were rapidly losing function.

When he was 9 months old, surgeons at the Intermountain Shriners Hospital in Salt Lake City removed his right foot and extensively reconstructed his left foot and leg.

Today, Blake has mastered the business of strapping on his artificial leg and boot, with shoes attached. He runs happily and innocently around the house.

With the opening of the Burns Institute in the mid-1960s, the Shriners system has become equally respected in the field of pediatric burn treatment. This includes plastic, reconstructive or restorative surgery, as well as efforts to prevent the formation of severe scarring that interferes with limb movement, and scarring and deformity of the face.

The hospitals are also leading

burn-treatment training centers for healthcare people worldwide.

From birth to age 18, birthday children may be eligible for treatment at Shriners Hospitals if, in the opinion of the chief of staff, there is a reasonable possibility that treatment will benefit the child and treatment at another facility would place a financial burden on the patient's family or guardians.

To refer a child to a Shriners Hospital, call 1-800-237-5055.

Since 25 million children in the United States lack any health care insurance, Shriners Hospitals is filling a greater need than ever. Last year, the hospitals accepted 24,000 new patients and performed 40,000 surgeries, and applied for 40,000 prostheses and braces.

And Shriners proudly say: "We mail zero bills."

Unsightly garbage

"This is addressed to the Solid Waste Management: I am concerned about the lack of enforcement of garbage cans rules in the Southwest section of Belle Glade. Garbage collectors are picking up garbage in the rear of houses in store bags and garbage bags. These bags are unsightly when dogs tear them open."

This is very evident before the garbage collection day and the cycle begins again after collection day. I beg of you - sanitation workers must refrain from picking up bags of garbage. You need to enforce the law.

Thank you."

Commentary

What part of "No" don't you understand, Mrs. Barley?

After all the recriminations - the day after the voters of Florida mandated her constitutional amendment to tax sugar farmers out of existence - instead of beginning a new dialogue, we see the farmer attacked again. Instead of "Let's get together for a common cause," Mrs. Barley exclaims, "You will pay a billion dollars NOW! What about lets sit down together and save the Everglades, Mrs. Barley?"

The "Everglades Forever Act" is the most constructive thing going for the park. Wrecking it would be insanity! All the farmer can really do is make sure his run-off water is cleaner than when we got it and that program is working fan-better than expected. Affixing blame for the pollution has to include consideration of almost a century of levee and canal building by the U.S. Corps of Engineers just to drain South Florida and make it inhabitable. Federal and state roads across the Everglades have played a part. Subdivisions, mall complexes and all the amenities millions of our citizens require as well as discharging millions of gallons of effluent generated daily all play a role. We all contribute to the pollution.

Are you really interested in saving the Everglades, Mrs. Barley?

"CERTAINLY YOU WON'T MIND IF MY SERMON RUNS A LITTLE OVERTIME?"

Will your children be able to ride the information highway to success?

By Reed E. Hundt, Chairman,
Federal Communications Commission

By the beginning of the next century - in less than four years - 80 percent of new jobs will require computer skills possessed by only 22 percent of Americans entering the labor market.

Already, most high-wage jobs require the use of networked computers. On average, jobs that require computer use pay about 15 percent more than those that do not.

Yet only 10 percent of the classrooms in America are prepared to train our young people to be technologically literate.

Are the schools in your community prepared? Do they have 21st century classrooms?

If we do not act today, we will live tomorrow in a society of information haves and have-nots.

This is an issue that matters to all Americans, whether or not your children use computers, whether or not you are a small business person in need of trained employees, and whether or not you are a long-time employee of a company, not trained in information technology and concerned for your own future.

We should all want our children to begin the future with the best chance of success. We know that wise use of information technology is an effective tool for improving education. Schools with technology have enjoyed higher test scores and better qualitative results.

We all want children to come to school ready to learn, and to find a school ready to teach them.

The Business community cares about the quality of education and training: they don't want to have to train every new hire to use a computer.

And in every community, there are countless adults who would welcome the opportunity to use a school or library computer training center to learn new skills they may need for a new career. A new law, The Telecommunications Act of 1996 opens the schoolhouse door to new technology.

This new law directs the Federal Communications Commission and State Utility Commissions to ensure that classrooms and libraries have access to telecommunications services -- like the Internet and e-mail -- at affordable rates. This new law can provide us with 100,000 hubs of advanced communications spread across every community of our nation.

Today, the FCC is hard at work with our state partners answering questions like what services do schools need, and how much is affordable.

We had to start answering these questions this month. As a parent, student, a business person, or an interested member of a local community, now is the time for you to get involved in this process and help us answer these questions.

You can do this by learning about the new law and the steps being taken to implement it.

You can contact the FCC at the address below or your state regulatory commission. Or you can ask your local school board what steps they are taking to get plugged into the information highway.

The new telecommunications law has been celebrated for the many new opportunities it will offer phone companies and other businesses, but the best opportunity of all may be the one we have to well prepare all young Americans for a bright and promising future.

You can reach me by e-mail at rjhundt@fcc.gov, by postal mail at 1919 M Street NW, Washington, D.C., 20554, or by phone at 202-418-0260, or through the FCC World Wide Web at <http://www.fcc.gov>.

I'm proud to be black

A poem by Christian Darling
PACE Center for Girls

Yes, I'm black and proud, and free

This is my color. This is me

Don't have me because I'm not the same color as you are

I'm just as beautiful' and not bazaar.

It's my color and I'm not ashamed

Don't judge me for the color of my skin

It's not what's on the outside, it's what's within

Yes, I'm black and proud, and free

beautiful, beautiful, that's me

Don't treat me as though I'm your slave

I don't have to bow down to you as a maid

I'm just as beautiful and intelligent as you may seem

Being black is a fantasy and a dream

Yes, black is the color of my skin

It's love and devotion that makes me beautiful

Yes, I'm black and proud, and free

This is my color and this will always be me

"Dr. Bus" to make special stop in town

The Western Palm Beach County Med-Mobile is scheduled to make a special stop at the Health Care District's administrative office in Belle Glade on Nov. 19. The office is located at 1500 N.W. Avenue L. The schedule is as follows:

8:45 a.m. to 11:15 a.m. - Tours of the mobile facility will be provided. members of PATCH (Planned Approach To Community Health) and GIN (Glades Interagency network) will participate.

10:30 a.m. to 11 a.m. - Live broadcast of the health Care District's radio program, "Housecalls" on AM 900/WSWN and FM 93.5/WBGF.

11:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. - Pediatric health care services provided - immunizations, well-child and sick-child care.

Health Care District staff will be available to determine eligibility for District programs.

The Med-Mobile, known as the "Dr. Bus," is a traveling clinic staffed by Public Health Department physicians and nurses, and operated via Health Care District funding. Although the normal route takes Dr. Bus to Glades area schools, senior centers, housing developments and community health events, the District is hosting this special visit to its office parking lot to increase awareness of the mobile facility and its ability to improve access to health care services by bringing them directly into the community.

The Health Care District welcomes everyone to the event. Tours will be provided from 8:45 a.m. until 11:15 a.m., and health care services will begin at 11:30 a.m.

Sorority discusses service projects for upcoming year

The November meeting of Nu Kappa was held Wednesday, Nov. 6 at the home of Betty Hodges. The primary business conducted was the planning of service projects for Thanksgiving and Christmas. In November, the chapter will be sponsoring three needy families for Thanksgiving dinner. As in the past, the Christmas project will be providing for needy children through a local organization. Members attending the meeting were Julie Zambory, Marsha Smith, Betty Hodges, Elizabeth Harrington, Nora Ornelas, Lynette Wiesenau and Betty White. A delicious carrot cake was served by hostess Betty Hodges.

"Conducting such events takes a lot of planning, volunteering and financing, but all is well worth it in seeing these Special Athletes achieve their goals," said Mr. Borton.

Funds donated by the American Legion will help the almost 3,000 participants pay for rooms, meals, and transportation.

GDS selling barbecue chicken dinners Friday

Glades Day School Band members will be sponsoring a barbecue chicken dinner sale on Friday, November 15 in the school cafeteria from 4:30 to 7 p.m.

Tickets are $6 and are available at the door.

In case you find yourself among the British peerage, you might like to know that a marquess—also known as a marquis—is higher than an earl or baron but not as high as a duke. A marquess's wife is a marchioness.

Practical Academic Cultural Education Inspiring the Spirit of Responsibility

P.A.C.E. Center For Girls is a non-profit, nonresidential program that was established as an alternative to incarceration or institutionalization of troubled teen girls. Through P.A.C.E., the girls learn that they are important and worthwhile individuals who can achieve any goals they desire.

P.A.C.E. provides a student/staff ratio of 10:1 and that, in turn, provides more one-on-one attention. It gives the girls a chance to have more individualized instruction which will help them grasp their academic studies in ways that just weren't possible before.

"I think if the bank does choose me to work for them, I will gain respect for myself and also my school by representing them all the best why I know how," says Christina Darling. "Having a job is a great responsibility, and I believe if I were to get this job, I would be able to keep my grades up and continue to show my mom that I am trying my best to make a change in my life for the better," says Tracie Cordell. "I want a better life for myself. I want to have something better to do with my life than work at a fast food restaurant. Most of all, I've always dreamed of being a career woman," says Kimberly Bryant.

Lake Harbor Hunt Permits To Be Issued Via Phone

The Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission will soon issue waterfowl hunt permits by phone for the Lake Harbor Public Small Game Hunting Area in southwestern Palm Beach County. The 600-acre area is located seven miles south of Lake Harbor just west of the Miami Canal.

Wildlife Biologist Laura Richards said the first phase of waterfowl hunting will begin November 27. Lake Harbor will be open on the first day of the season and on each Tuesday and Saturday through the two-phased season.

Permits will be issued by phone on a first-call, first-served basis from 8:30 a.m. thru 11 a.m. at the GFC's Wellington Wildlife Field

Office at: (561) 791-4052. Reservations will be accepted on the following dates:

Nov. 25 for Nov. 27 and 30 hunts.

Dec. 2 for Dec. 7 and 10 hunts.

Dec. 9 for Dec. 14 and 17 hunts.

Dec. 16 for Dec. 21 and 24 hunts.

Dec. 23 for Dec. 28 and 31 hunts.

Dec. 30 for Jan. 4 and 7 hunts.

Jan. 6 for Jan. 11 and 14 hunts.

Jan. 13 for Jan. 18 and 25 hunts.

Celebrate The Year Of The Ox In Hong Kong

(NAPS)—The Year of the Ox will be welcomed in Hong Kong on February 7, 1997, with a spectacular array of events and festivities.

Celebrate the Year of the Ox in Hong Kong and have a great time.

Join the locals and visit the huge, traditional flower markets a few days before the New Year, as a festive introduction for the fun activities to come.

The celebrations begin on the first day of the New Year with the Hong Kong New Year Parade, a colorful procession of larger-than-life floats, costumed performers, marching bands and troupes of drummers.

The following evening Hong Kong is awash in a shiny glow as the brilliant dragon dance lights up the skies over Victoria Harbor.

And for the next three days visit the Hong Kong Health & Fortune Expo, featuring ancient and modern techniques of fortune telling and alternative healing.

This is also a time for winter sports, including the Hong Kong Arts Festival, an annual extravaganza of cultural performances. Call your travel agent for special winter hotel packages to Hong Kong.

For information on Hong Kong write to the Hong Kong Tourist Association at 590 Fifth Avenue, New York, NY 10036, tel 212-869-5008.

An Athlete With A Vision...Nelson Lopez, Jr.

There is a 19 year old gentleman living in Pahokee who has a talent many may not know about. His name is Nelson Lopez, Jr. and his talent is boxing.

From first glance, one wouldn't even imagine that this smiling and friendly young man is a boxer. He seems almost too nice to actually hit anyone. Then he steps into the ring.

This 5'11", 215 lb. fighter has never been defeated in the ring. His first fight was December 1, 1994 and was against a Russian man, John Chek. His last fight was August 23, 1996 and was won with a third round knock out.

Nelson is coached and trained by his father, Nelson Lopez, Sr. He trains at Glades Carpet in Pahokee. It is a family owned business where his father built a boxing ring for Nelson to train.

Nelson credits his father for teaching and inspiring him to love the sport of boxing. "I grew up around boxing and my father was a boxer back in Cuba. I guess being around it so much makes it seem like second nature to me," said Nelson.

Nelson only fights amateur fights now and is presently training for the Olympic trials and hopes to make the 2000 United States team. "I would love to go to the Olympics and have the privilege of representing my country. It would be the experience of a lifetime," says Nelson.

Nelson hopes to fight professionally one day but he says he really enjoys amateur fights because of the experience. "Everyday in the ring and in the gym is a learning experience and every fight is a test of what you have learned," stated Nelson.

Nelson's training schedule is rigorous and demanding. He jogs and does sprints for speed and jumps rope for agility. Nelson uses the punching bag and lifts weights and describes his work out as "boring". Then he also goes on to say, "When I'm training and I get tired and I want to quit, I think about the guy I have to fight and I think that he's training harder than me and I find the strength and desire to train longer and harder than I had before."

One major point Nelson stresses is, "When one boxes, they have to be confident, but not too confident. You just can't think that you are going to go out and beat someone without training hard. You can't have a superior attitude and you have to always remember that you can be beat. Even if you win a big fight, there is always another one around the corner and you always have to be ready. There are 'no days off' in boxing."

Nelson and his father plan to eventually open a gym for professional fighters to train in during their off season. "That's always been a dream of my father's and I want to help him make it come true," says Nelson.

Nelson's love for boxing goes so deep that if he never makes it to the Olympics or to the professionals, he wants to be a sports trainer so he can always be close to the sport of boxing and the athletes. He says his first goal is to be the best boxer he can be and then to be the best sports trainer.

Nelson's training and boxing isn't an all day event either. Unlike many amateurs training, Nelson holds down a full time job as a campus police assistant at Pahokee High School and attends college so he has to train late at night and into the early morning hours.

Nelson said that his main attraction to the sport is because, "When you are in the ring, you can only depend on yourself. It isn't like football or baseball or soccer, where you have to depend on someone else for key plays. You are alone in the ring and you can depend on no one but yourself to get the job done."

His family, friends, and community are all proud of Nelson and his efforts. They have good reason to be. He isn't what one would consider to be a "dumb jock"; he's an athlete with a vision.

Powered Parachutes

Unless one is recreational pilot or aviation fanatic, they probably haven't been out to the Pahokee Airport. That is a mistake because at the airport, there's a cross between a go cart and a parachute that actually flies and there's a man who knows how to fly it.

This flying go cart is actually called a powered parachute and the man who knows how to fly it is Tim Christopher.

The powered parachutes are made by a company called Buckeye. They cost about as much as a used car and they can soar at 10,000 feet or skim just a few feet above the ground.

They look dangerous and scary but actually, they are the safest way to fly. There have been less than five people killed while flying a Buckeye aircraft.

One can be trained to do their first solo flight in about three hours by a licensed Buckeye trainer, which Tim Christopher is. For the curious but reluctant, one can always take a ride to see if you want to purchase one beforehand.

Pahokee's airport has a lot of new plans for renovation and restoration. The county is going to asphalt the runways and there have been rumors of a skydiving facility being set up.

Raiders Crush Suncoast 33-14

Glades Central (7-2) crushed Suncoast (2-7) last Friday in a game that can only be described as Raider Domination.

Andre Bryant rushed for 73 yards on 16 carries and scored two touchdowns but not without help from a fierce and intimidating offensive line that was there at all the right times and all the right places. Wide receiver, Mike Alford had four catches for 130 yards, including a 76 yard touchdown pass launched from quarterback, Brad Banks. With the combined offensive superiority and defensive domination. It was a game that helped put Glades Central as the District 14-4A Champs.

Now with another win under their belts, the Raiders get ready for a Sugarland Showdown against Pahokee this Friday. The "Muck Bowl" will be in Pahokee this year.

Glades Day Gators to host St. Edward's at Homecoming game

Last Friday, the Glades Day Gators traveled to play the More Haven Terriers in a district game. This one could hardly be described as a game. War is a better term for it.

Moore Haven showed the Gators that they meant business early into the contest. The first quarter was all Terriers, 13-0.

The Gators climbed back into the game when Stacy Cox scored on a three yard run for the Gators to make the score 13-7.

Less than a minute later, defensive end, Matthew Snow recovered a Terrier fumble and returned it 12 yards for a touchdown. The extra point put the Gators up 14-7.

At this point, the Gators had all the momentum. Cox again scored on a three yard touchdown, but the extra point was wide. The Gators went into halftime with a 20-13 lead.

The Gators carried the momentum into the third quarter when their defense stopped Moore Haven on fourth down. But the Gators wouldn't capitalize. Quarter back, Zach Threlkeld's pass was intercepted on the Terrier three yard line. Neither team scored in the third quarter.

With 6:49 left in the fourth quarter, Gator defensive tackle, Brian Allison recovered a Terrier fumble and the Gators were again driving. But a Gator fumble on the Terrier one yard line kept the Gators out of the end zone.

The Terriers took advantage of the Gators' missed opportunity and scored a touchdown to make the score 20-19. The Terriers went for two and got it putting them ahead 21-20.

The Gators had one chance to score but, with five seconds left in the game, Julian Rodriguez's 42 yard field goal attempt was blocked sealing the game for the Terriers and keeping their playoff hopes alive.

Although he didn't score, Lee Sweet was the Gators' offensive catalyst. He gained 202 yards on 23 carries.

Next week the Gators will try to stop their two game losing streak with a game at home against St. Edward's.

This Gator takes a minute to say a little prayer during the game against Moore Haven last Friday night.

MUCK BOWL '96

By Reese Siegel

Folklore has it that the first ever "Muck Bowl" wasn't played by high school athletes. According to some of the parents in Pahokee's community guidance group known as P.O.P. (Parents on Patrol), legend states that a team of farm workers from Pahokee, who picked vegetables for a living before there ever was a sugar field to harvest, took on a group of fishermen from Belle Glade. This game was played in one of those downpours that only Lake Okeechobee can generate. Scissors had to be used to cut the soaked clothes off many contestants after the game. You can't get a straight answer about who won, but the "Muck Bowl" was born. They say it was a knock down, drag out brawl. It was then

- it is now! Glades Central and Pahokee have ended their regular season high school football schedules with this annual event since then. This Friday in Pahokee, the "Muck Bowl" resumes with District 4A champ, Glades Central, traveling to face the Blue Devils (8-1) for what amounts to the sister cities' personal super bowl. A year of community bragging rights is the prize.

Blue Devils Capture 3A District Title

On a wet and slippery field last Friday night, Pahokee gained home field advantage in the post season play-offs. Pahokee ended the regular season undefeated in their 3A district.

Leading the team were, Sophomore stand-out quarterback, Antonio Boldin, with almost 200 yards. Supporting Boldin at running back was Antonio Newborne. Richard Bryant and James Burroughs were the go-to men at wide receiver. Anthony Williams and Ronald Bolden led the defense.

The Blue Devils will host Glades Central in the "Muck Bowl" Friday night. This non-district Glades Showdown is the highlight of the season.

Go Team!

Ten Local Athletes and One Head Coach Go To All Star Game

Athletic super stars will shine bright on December 14 at John I. Leonard High School in Greenacres. Out of 80 athletes chosen to play in the all star game, ten were local football players chosen by the coaching staffs of the American and National teams.

The game, which is a showcase for the top senior players in the area and attracts numerous college coaches and recruiters, is sponsored by Outback Steakhouse.

To top the honor of having ten local football players selected to play in the all star game, there was also a local head coach selected to be the head coach of the All American team. Mandy Perez, Glades Day Gators head coach, accepts this honor.

From Glades Central Community High School, the all stars players are, Andre

Bryant, Arnold Joachim, Mike Alford, and Otis Duhart.

From Glades Day High School, Heath Norman, and Rhed White.

From Pahokee High School, Richard Bryant, James Burroughs, Henry Ware, and Ronald Boldin.

Police Athletic League

On Saturday, November 9, the Raiders of Okeechobee Center won their first game of the year. The Raiders played the Gators of Glade Glen. The Raiders scored the first touchdown when they drove 60 yards while shortly after, Isaac Hornsby captured a touchdown on a three yard carry. Hornsby also scored on the extra point.

After a Raider fumble the Gators scored on a two yard run. The extra point was stopped when Darrynill Ray and Dumas Parson tackled the Gators running back for no yardage. The score stood Raiders (7) Gators (6).

Outstanding individual performance was shown by Dumas Parson, who had one quarterback sack. Darrynill Ray had a key interception. Myric Jones and the entire offensive line was led by Jesse Perez, David Burgess, Dumas Parson, Jermaine Frederick, and Arzavious Givens.

Muck Bowl '96.....

Glades Central has held the upper hand lately (winning the last 6 Muck Bowls). This season's Raider team plays stubborn defense and shows an efficient, balanced offensive attack led by quarterback, Brad Banks. It features one of the county's top breakaway rushers in running back, Andre Bryant. He follows Belle Glade alumni, Fred Taylor, who does his running these days for the #1 ranked Florida Gators. Glades Central receiving trio, consisting of Mike Alford, Dan Blythewood, and Dan Brown, are as dangerous as any group in Palm Beach County. The inside yardage gets ground out by fullback, Arthur Brown.

Pahokee football has a rich, long legacy of its own. It has produced no less than 14 N.F.L. alumni! They are most recently represented by the impeccable 15 year N.F.L. veteran linebacker/defensive end, Rick Jackson. Last year's senior phenomenon running back, LaFane Williams, followed Ricky's trail to the University of Pittsburgh and is a snap away from being "The Man" at tailback for Pitt's Panthers. He is considered an important part of what sportscaster, Beano Cook, described as a good freshman recruiting class at Pitt. Pahokee's gem of this year's talented group could turn out to be anyone of a half dozen players. But only one is an underclassman - sophomore quarterback, AnQuan Boldin.

To be clearly informed about "Quans abilities, consider the following: (A) During a recent game he played quarterback during the first half of a 27-12 victory. He ran for two TD's, breaking three tackles on the second one. He passed for one TD (a 52 yard bomb) on the last play of the half and then threw for the two point conversion as well. (B) Switching to defense for the second half, he intercepted a pass from his free safety position which killed a late third quarter drive. He had a second interception, which he returned 94 yards for an apparent second defensive TD, but it was called back on a roughing the passer penalty. He punted three times for a 38 yard average. He goes into this year's "Muck Bowl" ly and the game is a perennial Pahokee's leading passer, al sell out. Half-time boasts one of the most entertaining sets of marching bands to be found anywhere. They are patterned in the style of Southern University's collegiate band. That means that there are high-steppin' drum majors leading their drum marshals, combined with soulful, light-footed musicians who transform a marching band into a show.

So Pahokee head coach, Joe Marks, squares off against Raiders head coach, Milton Watson, with a year of bragging rights as King's of Sugartown on the line. Their assistant coaches will be yelling instructions like it's a instead of a game. That's the style of football that's played by the lake.

Steve Daniels of Clewiston takes First Place in Johnson/Evinrude FLW Tour Bass Championship

Source Operation Bass

Steve Daniel of Clewiston landed five bass weighing 8 pounds, 3 ounces, in the final round of action to capture first place in the Johnson/Evinrude FLW Tour's $125,000 bass championship on Lake Sinclair.

Daniel outfished four other anglers in the final round to win a gully-rigged Ranger bass boat powered by an Evinrude outboard valued at $25,000.

Daniel outdistanced the closest competitor by 1 pound, 15 ounces, to win the event. He fished points and rocks using crankbaits and Fat Wraps. Daniel caught his fish within one mile of Little River Park Marina.

Friday's round culminates four days of fishing in the first Johnson/Evinrude FLW Tour Championship where 40 professional anglers competed in two elimination rounds en route to the "Final Five" championship round which will be aired on ESPN 2 in mid-December.

The Johnson/Evinrude FLW Championship is the conclusion of the six-venue, 1996 Johnson/Evinrude FLW Tour, competitive angling's newest and most lucrative bass fishing program. The first year tour awarded close to $1 million to participants.

Roundout the final five in the Johnson/Evinrude FLW—(named for Ranger Boats' Founder Forrest L. Wood) Pro Division were: (2) Jack Wade, Knoxville, Tennessee, five bass, 6 pounds, 4 ounces, $10,000; (3) David Fritts, Lexington, North Carolina, five bass, 6 pounds, 3 ounces, $9,000; (4) Nelson Walker, Manning, South Carolina, two bass 2 pounds, 14 ounces, $8,000; and (5) Andy Morgan, Dayton, Tennessee, two bass, 2 pounds, 9 ounces, $6,625.

The amateur competition concluded Thursday with Todd Lee of Jasper, Alabama, with 5 pounds, 2 ounces, taking first place which included a fully-rigged Ranger Boat.

Johnson/Evinrude FLW Tour officials have announced that the 1997 FLW Tour will feature a 205 percent payout of entry fees, or $3.1 million in the seven event tour. The Forrest Wood Open, June 25-28, 1997, on Lake Minnetonka in suburban Minneapolis, will feature sport fishing's largest purse in history—$1 million in cash, which includes $200,000 for first place, the sport's largest cash prize.

Fishing with B.A.S.S. touring Pro Walt Reynolds

I must have forgot to shut the door when I returned from Georgia this past week. It allowed a preview of winter cold fronts to visit South Florida.

Steve Daniels, Mike Surman and myself spent the past ten days on Lake Sinclair, GA., fishing the FLW Tour Championship. Although Mike and I both finished out of the Top Ten, Steve Daniels went ahead to win.

The FLW Tour will return to Lake Okeechobee the first week of January to kick off the 1997 Tour. First place will pay $100,000.

If you had trouble slowing your boat down to fish in this weeks winds, you may want to try using a drift anchor.

This device is shaped like a large funnel with ropes attached. By tying the drift anchor to your boat, you are free to drift slowly with the wind and move under power of your trolling motor. The drift anchor is similar to a sea anchor, only smaller. The Drift Anchor is manufactured locally by Hart & Hart Mfg. of Okeechobee, and are available at area tackle stores.

Bass Fisherman's Circuit will present a Big Bucks Tournament out of Clewiston, the 7th and 8th of December. The off limits period has been waived to avoid a conflict with the Anglers Marina Team event on Dec. 1st.

To all a good bite

Barney Barron Invitational Golf Tournament a success

Proceeds to benefit Hope Hospice

By Buffie Chapman

And it was golf as usual...

The cool, windy weather didn't stop the 70-80 participants of the Barney Barron Invitational Golf Tournament, Saturday.

The Barney Barron Invitational Golf Tournament to benefit Hope Hospice was held Saturday, Nov. 9, at the Clewiston Golf Course.

The tournament has raised a lot of money for Hope Hospice in the past through their $150 entry fee. Competitors do get their money's worth. This years the entry fee included: 18 holes of golf, golf cart, goody bag, two BBQ dinners, cocktail party and a live band.

There was a 12:30 shotgun start and the participants finished the day by 5:30.

The winners of the Invitational were as follows:

LOW GROSS - Billy May

OVERALL LOW NET - Larry Mason

1ST FLIGHT

1st. place - Billy May; 2nd place - Thom Springfield; and 3rd place - (tie) Malcolm Etherton and Joe Hilliard.

2ND FLIGHT

1st place - Larry Mason; 2nd place - Don Davis; and 3rd place - Mike Lyons.

3RD FLIGHT

1st. place - Bill Abernathy; 2nd place - Larry Williams; and 3rd place - Henry Sanders.
